

FoodCheck 2.0 from Kelsius

A sustainable food safety solution

Throughout its business, manufacturing processes and operational procedures, Kelsius is committed to improving global sustainability from within the organisation and to helping its customers to achieve their sustainability goals.

Kelsius believes this is critical for the long-term viability of its business, its customers' businesses, and for communities locally and globally.

Kelsius is committed to improving global sustainability by focusing on four principles:

Remove
Paper

Reduce Waste

Protect Stock

Save
Energy

By prioritising these principles, Kelsius aims to reduced global paper and stock waste through digitised and automated solutions, and to reduce the CO2e from that waste.

REMOVE PAPER

- The average small-medium sized business uses up to 10,000 sheets of paper for manual temperature checks.
- Kelsius removes the need for manual paper records.
- Remove paper and printer and cartridge hardware from the environment.

REDUCE WASTE

- 10% of GHG emissions are a result of food waste.
- Much waste is caused by poor cold chain traceability and incorrect storage temperatures.
- Reliable temperature monitoring helps prevent this waste.

PROTECT STOCK

- Unprotected stock leads to damaged food and food waste.
- The average kg of food waste generates 3.2kg in CO2e.
- Minimising food waste reduces the environmental impacts of waste and waste disposal.

SAVE ENERGY

- Inefficient temperature monitoring and food waste result in energy waste.
- Kelsius 24/7 monitoring allows optimal fridge and freezer temperatures, saving energy.
- Less food waste results is less energy used in disposal processes.
